

Position: Consultant

Position Location: Napa, CA

About the Company:

Clean Power Research® provides services for making informed clean energy decisions. These services include online software systems, consulting and research. The company has been in business for over 10 years and has offices in Napa, CA and Kirkland, WA. We offer a startup-like environment coupled with the stability and customer base of an established company.

Position Summary:

Provide technical and analytical support on consulting projects with utilities, agencies and manufacturers.

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Provides technical and analytical support on consulting projects with utilities, agencies and manufacturers
- Meets with clients to identify and collect relevant qualitative and quantitative client data for consulting contracts
- Prepares written proposals, reports and presentations for clients
- Meets with managers and software engineers to coordinate interfaces and interdependencies between software products and consulting contracts
- Ensures that excellent quality standards are met for all consulting client services
- Works with management to identify objectives and manage progress on achievement of quarterly and annual project completion schedules and fiscal goals for consulting services
- Develops knowledge of the renewable/clean energy industry
- Develops knowledge base in the economic analysis of the value of clean energy technologies

Requirements:

- Passion for solar energy or renewables
- MS/MA/PhD in Economics, Finance, Engineering, Math or other relevant field or other equivalent job experience
- 2 - 10 years of experience in consulting or related field
- Strong analytical skills
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Excellent client relations skills

To Apply:

Please email cover letter and resume to careers@cleanpower.com